

Thank you so much for your interest in an Annie's Doodles puppy. It is important that you understand the process of obtaining a puppy from Annie's Doodles. While our process may seem a little complex, we have found that it is the best method to give our depositors the greatest choice and flexibility with their litter selection and to get them the puppy of their dreams!

Once you place your deposit you go on to the "master deposit list". Deposits are recorded in the order that they come in. This creates a seniority system. The people on that list have deposited onto future litters that have not been born yet. Some people specify certain litters in their application, some only specify a certain type (size, color, sex, etc.) some people are open to anything and that flexibility will help them move up a bit faster. The master deposit list sometimes can grow to higher than 50 names. When depositors get under #25 on the list, they may begin to make what we call a "bid" for a litter. Basically, you are "throwing your hat in the ring" for a litter when they are born.

Depositors have 7 days after the newborn video is posted to decide if that is the litter that they want to make a "bid" for. To make a "bid" you have to be at least #25 or lower on the seniority list. Then you email this exact email to my assistant. The subject line needs to say "_____ 's litter". (fill in the _____ with the name of the mom dog, ex: Caramel's litter or Macy's litter) The body of your email just needs to say your first and last name; nothing else. As you can see, depositors can choose whether to make a "bid" for the litter list or wait for another litter. After 7 days, the "bidding window" will be closed. The pick order is set by seniority. We will take all of the "bidders" and put them in order by seniority to know what spot # each person will end up on the litter list. Within 4 days of the bidding window closing, Annie will be giving you a call to talk about what spot you would be on that litter and to see if you are ok with that spot or if you want to wait for another litter. Please only bid when you are ready to take home a puppy. You will never lose your spot on the seniority list. Within a couple of days after being put on a specific litter list, you will get a "welcome to _____'s litter" email will be sent to each person with their spot #. Please reply to that email so that we know we have the correct email and the correct spot written in our books. Once you email back accepting your position on a specific litter list, you cannot back out without losing your deposit.

So...for example:

Say you are number #25 on the reserve master deposit list. You move up as people ahead of you get puppies. Let's say you have now moved your way up to position #8. You watch the site to keep track of where you are in regards to seniority and when litters are arriving. You have been watching the site and you see that Caramel just had 6 puppies. Caramel's litter is your dream litter so you send off an email bid to us for that specifies Caramel's litter. The bidding window closes after 7 days. We then gather all the emails that come in for that litter and put them in order based on where they are on the seniority list. Let's say these people emailed with interest in being on Caramel's litter list: #5 #8 #6 #24 #11 #2 #17 #24 #7. We would then put them in order based on the seniority list. The list would then look like this with only the top 6 getting to be put on Caramel's list: #2 #5 #6 #7 #8 #11 #17 #24. Person #17 and #24 would continue to wait for another litter to bid on but would have less people in front of them now. If someone that made the list was unsatisfied with their picking position, we would call person #17 and so on until the spot was filled. Since you were 5th in order of seniority, you would become pick #5 for Caramel's litter and would have two puppies to choose from when Annie calls at 7 weeks to match you with your puppy.

Let's say you put in a bid but did not make it into that litter because there were too many people ahead of you in seniority; #1 #3 #4 #5 #6 #7 #8. No worries! You would just wait for the next suitable litter and would send another bidding email saying " _____ 's litter!" the next time you saw a litter that you liked. This process would continue until you were put on a specific litter list you were happy with.

Annie's Doodles parent dogs are fully health tested and certified with OFA, for Hips and Elbows or PEN HIP, OFA Eye certified and Heart. This helps ensure you are getting the healthiest puppy possible. We give a 2-year health guarantee. Puppies come to you with their first vaccines, and deworming. They are vet checked, micro chipped, fed Life's Abundance super premium dog food and NuVet Plus supplement, imprinted to eliminate in the litter box, socialized with kids and pre-spoiled.

Our puppies are $3200.00 plus WA sales tax. The deposit is $300. You then pay the remaining purchase price when you pick up your puppy.

If you are ready to take the next step and officially put your name on the seniority list, please respond to this email by just saying "I am in! " We will send you an email of the wait time you can expect and what litters will be available in the future. On the other hand, if you find that we are not the breeder for you, please let us know and we will cut your check in half and text you a picture of it.

Due to quarantine, we have been flooded with a much higher volume of deposits. All puppies from litters currently born or bred are sold. If you place a deposit, it would be for a puppy born in the future. The wait time at this point is likely to be about 6+ months per 50 people on the waitlist.

All the best from all of us at Annie's Doodles~
