Our puppies and dogs are NOT HYPOALLERGENIC! If you have any kind of pet allergies, there is a possibility that you might have a reaction to our puppies. Although our doodles are low shedders and are allergy friendly to most people, they are definitely not for everyone. In dogs, the proteins that most often act as allergens are primarily in saliva, urine, and dander (dead skin cells that get caught in the hair). Because you do not meet your puppy in person before taking them home, there is no way for you to absolutely know whether or not you are allergic to that particular puppy. Therefore, we ask you on the front end to honestly evaluate yourself and your family's allergies.

_____ (initials) I have evaluated our family's allergies. I understand that by filling out this application, I acknowledge that these dogs are not hypoallergenic and I feel good about moving forward.

_____ (initials) A dog can be a great companion for a child, but we all know that puppies do not come trained. Puppies nip, scratch, and wrestle with their littermates. This is normal, healthy, canine behavior; this is called "pack behavior". When the puppies are brought home to a family with children, they often view the children as puppies. It takes an immense amount of training to transition a puppy from "pack mentality" to a well behaved member of the family.
